

When have you used Maths today?

Mr. Youds Site Manager

There are many times throughout his job when Mr. Youds uses his maths skills. Measuring and cutting notice boards to size has to be accurate, after checking areas are suitable sizes. He has to measure areas of walls for plastering to know how much plaster to order. When he is mixing the plaster he must use the correct quantities. Controlling the temperature of the school means Mr. Youds has to be able to read the positive and negative numbers on a thermometer and on heating controls. To make sure we never run out of supplies, he has to estimate how many paper towels the school will use in a whole year!
